The sale of these Note Cards funds internships for American Indian Students and provides grant money for teachers of students in the annual Youth Art Show to purchase art supplies. The Note Card project is part of the Heard Museum Guild's Youth Art Show & Sale, an annual event for American Indian student artists in grades 7 through 12. The images are selected from the entries in the show. All cards are printed in-state and support local businesses.

The Note Cards are 5" x 7", blank inside, packaged in sets of 8, with envelopes included. The artist's name, tribal affiliation, and age are on the back of each card. The 8 card packets are either the assortments pictured here, or all of one design as shown on the reverse of this sheet.
